Shelter Medicine Practice Study and Reading List - 2020

The following is a list of topics typically covered on the examination along with some suggested resources. Emphasis will be placed on guideline documents, Shelter texts, and Shelter articles; however, all the materials below have relevance to the care of individuals and populations within a shelter environment and may appear on the exam. The vast majority of questions will be referenced in one or more of the resources below, but some questions may be taken from sources other than this list.

Candidates are not expected to purchase or read all of these resources; emphasis should be placed on the areas where candidates feel deficient. The newest editions of books are recommended unless otherwise noted. “Primary Journals” are those which frequently publish articles of relevance to shelter medicine while “Supplemental Journals” are those which have occasional articles of relevance to shelter medicine.

Studying with others is a good way to keep on track and is strongly encouraged. If you know colleagues who are also preparing for ABVP, feel free to contact them for support and motivation.
